

June 3, 2014

REMINDER: University Place detour, TigerTransit and TigerPaWW bus stop relocation, beginning June 4

University Place Detour

Starting on Wednesday, June 4, University Place will be closed to thru traffic from College Road to Alexander Street due to construction of the Princeton University Arts and Transit project. This closure is expected to remain in place until mid-July. Access for vehicles travelling to the Wawa customer parking lot will be maintained via the roundabout on Alexander Street.

A detour for vehicular traffic will be in place for the duration of the closure. A temporary traffic signal has been installed at the intersection of College Road and Alexander Street that will be operational while the detour is being used. This signal is now operating in "flash" mode; it will begin normal operation on Wednesday, June 4.

Local access to and from the metered diagonal parking spaces along University Place south of College Road, adjacent to the McCarter Theatre Center, will be maintained via the College Road-University Place intersection.

Additionally, pedestrian and bike paths in the area will be shifted during this construction phase. Please follow signage that will be posted when walking, biking and/or driving through the area.

Updated maps showing vehicular, pedestrian, and bike detours are available on the Arts and Transit Project website.

Tiger Transit and TigerPaWW Bus Stop Relocation

Starting on Wednesday, June 4, the TigerTransit and TigerPaWW (Princeton to Princeton Junction) bus stop will be relocated from University Place, currently adjacent to the Wawa parking lot, to College Road, across from the circle at the McCarter Theatre Center. The TigerPaWW bus between Princeton and Princeton Junction and TigerTransit buses will stop at this new location; bus schedules will not change.

If you have questions about the University Place detour or the relocation of the TigerTransit/TigerPaWW bus stop, please email or call 609-258-8023.